

BANNER PUBLISHES IN ITS NEW PLANT

Banner Marked 100th Birthday In Sept. 1950

The Greencastle Banner, the oldest continuous business in this city, celebrated its 100th anniversary in September, 1950.

The following is a reprint of the history of the newspaper at the time of its centennial:

"Forerunners of the Greencastle Banner were founded about the time Putnam County was settled in 1823 to 1825. The first attempt to publish a paper here regularly was about 1834, when John Wesley Osborne succeeded a Mr. Childs as a publisher. He called his paper 'The Western Plowboy.'"

"On file in the public library, with only a few breaks, are copies of The Greencastle Banner dating back to 1852. Prior to 1868, publishers changed the name of the paper several times. At that time it was called The Putnam County Banner. In 1868, a Mr. Brown, who was then publisher, changed it to The Greencastle Banner and it has had similar names since then.

"One of the early publishers was George J. Langsdale, who lived in the residence now occupied by the Gen. Jesse M. Lee Post 1550 Veterans of Foreign Wars, corner of Indiana and Poplar Streets.

"Mr. Langsdale was a Civil War Veteran and an originator of the idea of a Soldiers and Sailors Monument which now stands on the Circle in Indianapolis. He served as chairman of the building commission for this impressive memorial.

"Dr. O. F. Overstreet, one of Greencastle's best known older citizens, recalls some of the things that transpired while Mr. Langsdale was editor. The office at that time was located where the telephone exchange is today on South Indiana Street between Washington and Walnut.

"About 1890, the paper was purchased by Harry M. Smith from William J. Beckett and in 1892, fifty-nine years ago, October 17, it was converted into a daily newspaper.

"Since 1890, this newspaper has made tremendous strides in keeping pace with the rapid changes and modern advances in all fields during the past sixty years.

"The days of the hand set pages of type are now history. The oldtime printer has been replaced by mechanical typesetters such as the Linotype, Intertype and the Ludlow. Local news is still gathered by local reporters and county correspondents. State, national and world events are covered for the Daily Banner by the United Press and the International News Service, two of the largest news syndicates with offices and contacts all over the globe.

"The Daily Banner moved from the old Banner block, corner of Franklin and Vine Street to the present site of the Royale Cafe, corner of Washington and Vine, in 1914. In July, 1926, The Banner moved across Washington Street to the room now occupied by Coan's Drug Store. In 1931, The Daily Banner and The Herald were consolidated and the plant and business offices moved into the present location at 17-19 South Jackson Street, September 1, of that year.

"Samuel R. Rariden, owner and publisher, has been connected with The Daily Banner for 39 years or since 1911. He assumed the important position as publisher in 1924 when the late Harry M. Smith retired due to ill health.

"Three employees of the present Daily Banner staff have each been associated with Mr. Rariden in the publication of the paper for more than 25 years. They are Charles Howard, printer; George Reynolds, linotypist and James B. Zeis, reporter.

"The nearly complete files of 100 years history of Putnam County form probably the only complete history of the county covering that period of time and in the years to come will become more valuable as time goes on. They are alive with happenings of every community within the county as well as in Indiana and the nation. The Greencastle Banner has ridden the crest of popularity in good times and has seen numerous depressions, and has seen many businesses in the county come and go. Several here are as old as The Daily Banner or older, but none has reached the century mark to date.

"The Greencastle Banner has seen DePauw University, then Asbury College grow from a limited beginning to its present solid position and has attempted to aid the University and the community in every worthwhile enterprise presented. We have many loyal friends who have extended their best wishes despite our attempts to not make too much of nearly 100 years of history-making along with Putnam County.

"To these friends and thousands of others in the community, we offer our sincere thanks for their good wishes and hope we will be able to carry their trust in us still further in the future."

A Salute To

Samuel R. Rariden

THE DAILY BANNER PUBLISHER

By James B. Zeis

More than half a century ago—53 years to be exact—in 1911, an energetic and ambitious young man from Bedford joined the rather small staff of The Daily Banner.

At that time, the Banner office was located at the northeast corner of Franklin and Vine Streets in what was then known as The Banner Building. These same rooms are now occupied by the Currie Tin Shop, owned and operated by Joe Ellis, Jr.

It was during those pre-World War I years that Samuel R. Rariden, owner, editor and publisher of today's Daily Banner, learned the rudiments of the printer's trade. He also learned news writing and the value of news stories insofar as the readers were interested.

The Banner then moved to the present site of the Royale Cafe, corner of Washington and Vine Streets.

World War I passed and The Banner subscribers began to increase, and in 1923 this newspaper was proud of its 1,850 paid subscriptions.

In 1924, Harry M. Smith, owner and publisher of The Banner, became ill. It was then that Sam Rariden took over the helm to direct the destiny of the paper in the years ahead.

In July, 1926, The Banner moved across Washington Street to the site of the present Coan Drug Store. The paper was now printed on a press capable of handling eight pages an issue instead of only four pages. This change was necessary due to increased advertising.

Five more busy years rolled by and in August, 1931, The Daily Banner, which had purchased the Greencastle Herald, moved into the Herald Building at 17-19 South Jackson Street.

Time passed and advertising and subscribers continued to increase as Greencastle's population also became larger.

More years passed and with the growth of Greencastle's population and business firms, The Banner's advertising also increased. Instead of eight pages, several days each week, the paper had 12, 14, and even 16 pages.

The paper's staff also increased from six or seven employees in 1911 to 18 and then 20 in 1963.

All this time, it was the guiding hand of Sam Rariden that kept The Banner on course on the sea of journalism.

During all these years, Sam Rariden, in newspaper lingo, has "covered" all kinds of happenings and he and his camera have become quite familiar over the entire Putnam County community.

He has never been too busy that he couldn't cover a lodge installation, a church supper, a wedding in some rural church, a golden wed-

A RED LETTER DAY!

Year Of Progress Culminates 114 Years As Paper

Today, Saturday, April 4, 1964, The Daily Banner formally announces that it is publishing in its modern new plant on South Jackson Street almost directly across on the west from its former location for nearly 33 years.

This announcement follows a year of progress and intensive preparation to give Greencastle, Putnam County and surrounding residents the very latest and very best in a daily newspaper.

The new Banner plant boasts an ultra modern business office, an engraving department, a modern composing room, a modern job printing department, a high speed rotary press, a modern stereotyping department, and a circulation department.

No expense has been spared to give Greencastle the very latest in equipment for a newspaper to keep pace with a progressive community.

The Banner is now equipped to print 16 pages at one time at the rate of 25,000 an hour.

Over the years, since 1926, it has required at least two hours to print 5,800 papers on the old style flat bed press for The Banner subscribers.

The Banner is now able to print with color on certain pages in the same manner that large, metropolitan newspapers are published.

The Banner's new job department can handle all kinds of letter heads, envelopes, invitations, business and candidate cards as well as sale bills and various other forms of job work.

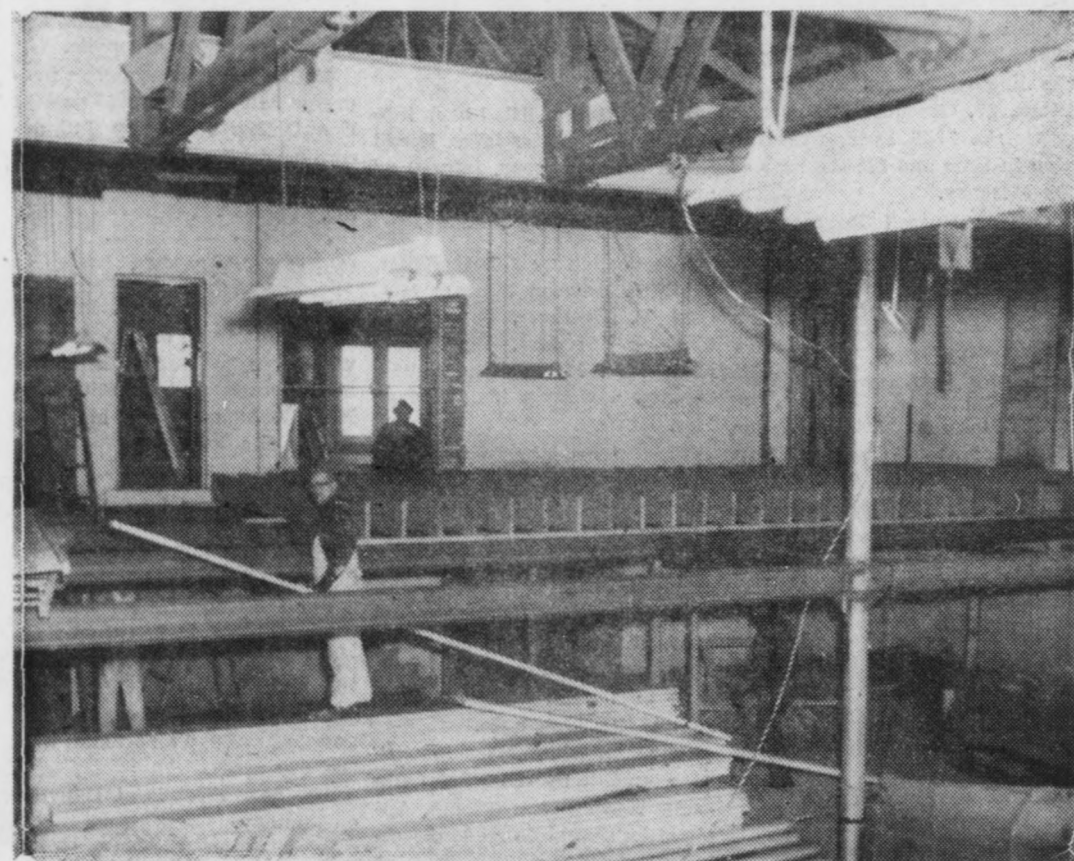

This modern plant is the culmination of 114 years of service by The Banner in Putnam County.

There has been a Greencastle Banner since 1850. The Banner has been a daily paper for the past 72 years.

The Banner staff is looking forward to the 73rd year as a daily and the 115th year as a newspaper with the motto, "It Waves For All."

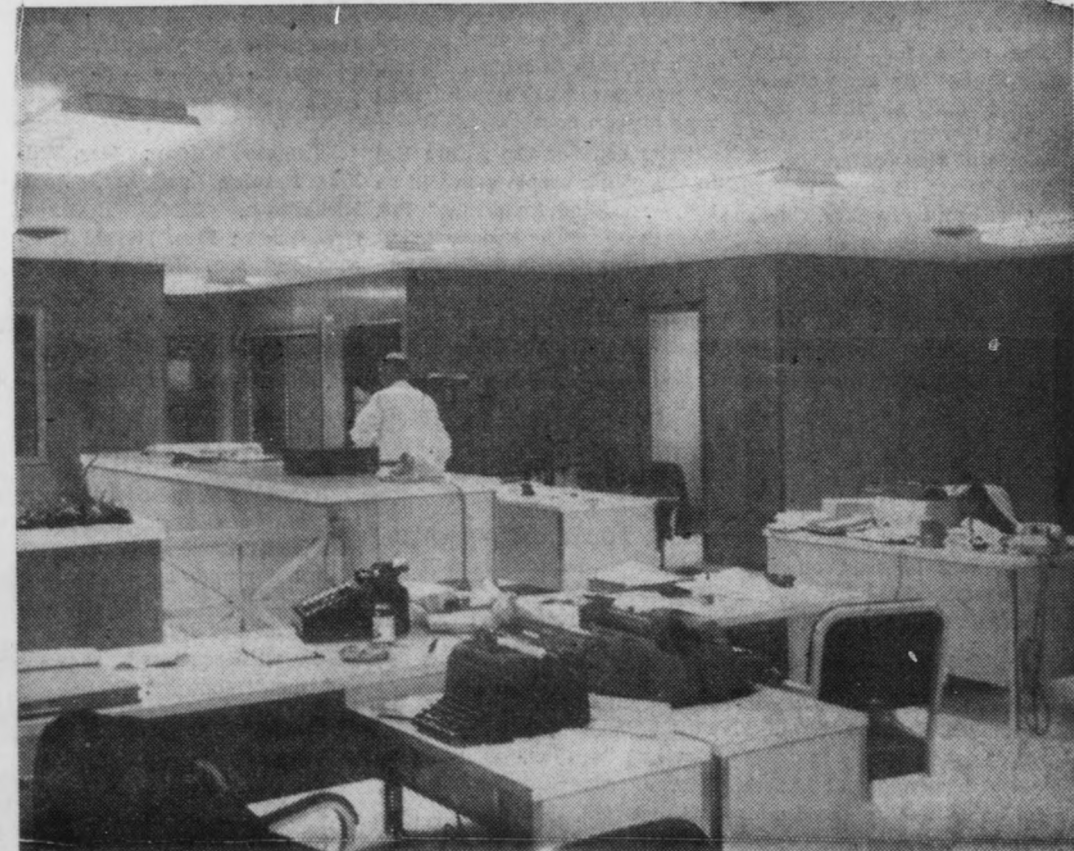

With this in mind, The Banner takes great pleasure in announcing that Open House will be held in the new plant on Saturday and Sunday, April 18 and 19, starting at 1 p.m. each day.

A cordial invitation is extended to everyone to be the guests of The Banner and visit this modern newspaper office.

CHEVY II by Chevrolet

How to get away from it all including the high cost of travel!

If you're looking for a way to get the whole family there and back on a small vacation budget, this is the station wagon that can do it.

You see, a Chevy II is one of the most inexpensive wagons you can own. It goes so many miles between gas stops you'll think we built in a spare tank. Garage stops, too, are far, far apart.

And you get 76 cu. ft. of cargo space for less money than you'd expect to pay for most sedans. Big enough to handle fat rowboats and tall fishing poles. Powerful enough to tote fully loaded trailers.

And all Chevy II's come with Chevrolet's money-saving, easy-care features. Like Body by Fisher, rust-resisting flush-and-dry rocker panels, battery-saving Delcotron generator and self-adjusting brakes.

Besides wagons, of course, there are Chevy II sedans and coupes. The Super Sport Coupe comes with a wide range of engines, bucket seats, door-to-door carpeting and either an extra-cost floor-mounted Powerglide or 4-speed transmission. So although Chevy II's are economical to buy and own, they certainly don't look it.

And now that it's Trade 'N' Travel Time at your Chevrolet dealer's, you'll never find a better time to look into Chevy II. Look under its hood. Slam its solid doors. Bounce on its thickly padded foam-cushioned seats. But above all else—try it on the highway. It'll give you a good run for your money.

THE GOOD OLD DAYS

Taken from the files of the Banner of 1938:

Snowden Springs are quintuples in number, are sulphur in chemical content, are most potent medically, and are located in as wild a little nook of terrain as may be found in most other parts of Putnam County's diversified surface.

The Snowden Springs locality is but the beginning of a hinterland of rough and rugged surface which is as strange and unfamiliar to about 20,050 of Putnam's population as is the wild and woolly far West. The remaining 250 inhabitants of the county may have seen the springs and the gorge in which they are located, but it is doubtful. In earlier days, the place was better known than it is now, because then, picnics were held there and the young men had splendid opportunities to help the girls up and down the precipitous paths which threaded their way through real forest growth and dense shrubbery down to the bottom of the miniature canyon in which the springs were, and are, located.

The springs and their picturesque settings are located northeast of Bainbridge a few hundred yards toward the south from the country gravel road which leads on eastward from the last turn in the black top road which runs from Bainbridge to Roachdale. Instead of making the turn north toward Roachdale at the Balch-Akers corner the driver seeking the springs should continue eastward, following the curves of the road. Before the Rolling Stone covered bridge is reached, there is a lane back to a rather weather-beaten, small house on the right, and that line is the entrance to the spring ground. Before reaching that lane, from the highway, there is visible a fence post which stands by the side of a stone which marks the cornering of four townships—the southeast corner of Franklin, the southwest of Jackson, the northeast of Floyd and the northwest of Monroe. A baby's hand could be so placed that its little palm would be in all of these four townships, simultaneously.

The Snowden Springs house was built about 1880 by James Snowden, by the way, the daughter of John Michael, who lived near the creek. Mr. Snowden did not make much of the place, but James VanHook coming from Kentucky came into possession of the property about 1900. He expended much time, personal labor and quite a bit of money in erecting a dam 21 feet high in the gorge through which flows the fine little branch leading from the springs but arising higher up in the gorge above the site of the springs. He also constructed the concrete foundation for a refreshment house and a dance hall. But high water raged down the canyon one night and the dam went out.

There are five of the springs, which among them, produce three different sorts of water, but all of them are sulphur. The lower sidewalls and the floor of the canyon are of soapstone, and inasmuch as water is constantly flowing over the floor, it is slippery as wet soap itself, exceedingly treacherous for foot travel. The springs flow out of the soapstone near the brink of the little stream.

The Snowden Springs area is but the beginning of the wildest tract of land in Putnam County, all of it in the lower benches, and up on the bluffs of Big Walnut creek, as it meanders its way northeasterly through southwesterly Jackson township. Rolling Stone bridge, nearby, has a wild setting, and that sort of terrain persists all the way up the stream's windings past the Pine Bluff bridge, and thence on up through the fabled "Lost Forty" which is so rough and wild that no owner seems to exist for it.

Are these still in existence?

Lightner Slam Double Difficult In Practice

By Alfred Sheinwold
More than thirty years ago Theodore Lightner invented his Slam Double Convention: the double of a slam contract asks partner to make an unusual opening lead. If the "usual" or expected opening lead will defeat the contract, you pass and take your profit without bothering to double.

The Lightner double sounds very easy in theory and in print, but it is not always so easy in practice. Sometimes the opening leader must guess which suit is unusual.

When the hand shown today was played, in a match between the United States and England in 1956, East doubled six spades to get an unusual lead. East felt sure that the expected lead, a club, would not defeat the contract; and East was perfectly right.

West knew that the double told him not to lead a club. It was absurd to consider a trump lead, so West had only to choose between hearts and diamonds.

That word "only" sometimes covers a lot of territory. West took seven minutes by the clock to find his opening lead. During that time he mopped his face with three different handkerchieves. He finally came up with the right answer, but it wasn't worth it. West was a wreck for the next five hands.

REAL PROBLEM

West's problem was that he had a seven-card diamond suit and that his partner might very well have no diamonds at all. Against that was the fact that the opponents had not bid no-trump, which they might have done early or after the double if they had all the missing diamonds between them.

If West had guessed wrong, there would be good reason to blame East. At his second turn, East might have bid three hearts — preparing a defense against the slam that he could expect the opponents to bid. If the opponents then bid six spades, East could sit back and wait for his partner to read the meaning of the heart bid.

DAILY QUESTION

As dealer, you hold: S-A-J-8
4-2 H-K-9-2 D-5 C-K-10
3-2. What do you say?

Answer: Bid one spade. You have 11 points in high cards and 2 points for distribution. With a total of 13 points you have an optional opening bid, and in this case you choose to bid because of the good five-card major suit and good high-card structure.

Light Fantastic To Welcome Visitors

Light is the traditional symbol of welcome, whether it be the warm glow of a porch light or the blazing torch of the Statue of Liberty. The greatest exhibition of all time, the New York World's Fair, will welcome its expected 70,000,000 visitors with the most brilliant, most spectacular light in history, the Tower of Light.

The great 12-billion candlepower light, equal in brilliance to 50-fully illuminated Yankee Stadiums, with emanate from the pavilion sponsored by Public Service Company of Indiana, Inc., and some 140 other investor-owned utility companies throughout America. The brilliant beam will stab miles into the sky and will be the first thing visitors will see as they approach New York via plane, train, car, bus or boat. Opening date of the fair is April 22. One of the architectural triumphs of the Fair, the Tower of Light pavilion consists of hundreds of aluminum prisms rising in a staggered fashion from a reflecting pool to a height of 80 feet at the center. Twelve 5 KW searchlights housed in the open central core of the pavilion will send the powerful beam skyward.

PARTIAL SOULTION

BLOOMINGTON Ind. (UPI)—Increased use of public school facilities on a limited basis may be a partial solution to the controversial question of public funds for parochial and other non-public schools.

George LaNoue, a guest scholar at Brookings Institution's Center for Advanced Study at Washington, made the suggestion Friday night at the Indiana Conference on Religion and the Schools.

More than 150 Indiana school administrators, clergymen and attorneys attended the second night of the three-day conference being held at Indiana University.

U.S., Panama To Reopen Relations

WASHINGTON UPI — The United States and Panama have agreed to reopen diplomatic relations and hold talks on long-standing issues which flared into major riots 12 weeks ago.

The agreement, reached Friday after many earlier attempts by negotiators had failed, said the two countries would name special ambassadors to meet and "seek the prompt elimination of the causes of conflict." It said these talks would be entered into "without limitations or preconditions of any kind."

President Johnson named former Republican Treasury Secretary Robert B. Anderson as his special emissary for the talks.

The agreement said the special envoys "will begin immediately the necessary procedures with the objective of reaching a just and fair agreement, which would be subject to the constitutional processes of each country."

Diplomats said the actual restoration of diplomatic relations, which Panama broke off in January, would be done in an early exchange of notes.

In announcing the agreement, the White House pulled out all stops. President Johnson met with Latin American ambassadors at the White House and told them "this is truly a great day."

Johnson also talked with Panama's President Roberto Chiari by telephone, and the President summoned Democratic and Republican congressional leaders to an extraordinary meeting of the National Security Council at which the agreement was explained to them.

HEAVY ROLE?

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — Three-hundred-pound British character actor Peter Bull is playing the role of the Russian Ambassador to the United States in the Columbia picture, "Dr. Strangelove: or How I Learned to Stop Worrying and Love the Bomb."

The picture is under production at Shepperton Studios in London. The cast includes Peter Sellers, George C. Scott, Sterling Hayden and Keenan Wynn.

Winds Destroy Fishing Vessels

KODIAK, Alaska UPI — High winds with gusts up to 70 miles per hour destroyed or severely damaged 18 fishing vessels, sinking one, capsizing another and piling up others on the rocky breakwaters of this city's harbor, already devastated by tidal waves.

Karl Armstrong, editor of the weekly Kodiak Mirror, said "Williwaw" winds hit the area about 3 a.m. Alaska time and were still blowing without let-up six hours later on a cold, cloudless day. Williwaw is the name natives in the Kodiak-Aleutian area gave to the winds which come up suddenly and often continue for a day.

"The sea looks like it is smoldering," Armstrong told UPI by telephone. "The spray looks like smoke. Winds, a steady 35-40 miles per hour with gusts to 70, are battering boats against the rocks. The Miss Arctic, a 40-footer, sank."

The editor, whose newspaper plant was destroyed by tidal waves a week ago, said approximately 30 fishing vessels, many of them large boats, were sunk or badly damaged following the Good Friday earthquake.

St. Augustine Back To Normal

America's oldest city and latest racial hotspot, St. Augustine, Fla., has returned to normal with the departure of a group of New England integrationists.

Sheriff L. O. Davis said the city began returning to "normal" shortly after Mrs. Malcolm E. Peabody, the inspirational leader for a week-long integration drive, left for Boston Friday.

Mrs. Peabody, mother of Massachusetts Gov. Endicott Peabody, said she hoped to return to St. Augustine "and find that I can go in a restaurant with anyone I choose." She was arrested and jailed last Tuesday while with a biracial group that refused to leave a segregated motel restaurant.

Most of the 263 persons arrested during the St. Augustine demonstrations were freed on bond Friday.

A subcommittee of the biracial community relations committee, formed during last week's racial upheaval in Jacksonville, began closed hearings Friday on ways to solve the city's race problems.

The subcommittee was scheduled to report its findings to the full biracial committee before April 10.

Mac Reported In Deep Coma

WASHINGTON UPI — Gen. Douglas MacArthur was unconscious and slipping deeper into a coma today.

In their report on his condition, doctors said Friday night that it was becoming increasingly hard to get a response from the valiant 84-year-old soldier who is fighting to survive three major operations in a month.

Spokesman at Walter Reed Medical Center said there had been "no obvious change in the vital signs"—his blood pressure and pulse rate—and that the "old soldier" remained in critical condition.

Senate May Be Lacking Quorum

WASHINGTON UPI — The Senate was called into another Saturday session on the civil rights bill today with a strong prospect it might use much of its time getting a quorum.

Senate leaders served notice this would be a "working day" and that members would be expected to be present. The implication was that the sergeant-at-arms would be sent out to round them up if necessary. Telegrams and phone calls were used to alert the members to be at the sessions.

Brazil Leaders To Purge Reds

RIO DE JANEIRO, Brazil UPI — Interim President Ranieri Mazzilli and his newly-appointed cabinet worked today to put the government in order and comply with military demands for an immediate purge of Communists.

The whereabouts of deposed President Joao Goulart remained a mystery. There were indications he was at his million-acre ranch near Sao Borja, in Rio Grande do Sul State, preparing to leave for exile in neighboring Uruguay.

Goulart's wife and two small children arrived in Montevideo Friday and Mrs. Goulart said she hoped her husband would soon join her.

She said he still was at their ranch near Soa Borja.

Leakey, said the newly discovered species may represent the most significant turning point in the history of man's evolution from his ape-like forebears to homo sapiens, the single surviving species which includes all human beings living today.

Leakey and his wife, Mary, found fossil parts of five homo habilis individuals in Olduvai Gorge, Tanganyika, in East Africa where they have been digging into man's dim past for decades.

One of the individuals was an 11-year-old child. Another was an elderly woman. A third was a girl, 20 to 21 years old, whom the Leakeys nicknamed "Cinderella."

The discovery and identification of homo habilis, a species entirely new to science, means that current textbooks on the history of man 'have got to be completely rewritten,' Leakey told reporters at a news conference sponsored by the National Geographic Society, which supported the Leakeys' work.

In The Churches

Don't Swear!

It's a Bible command... a common-sense law of life. "Thou shalt not take the name of The Lord Thy God in vain." THEN WHY DO YOU DO IT???

Careless habit? Limited vocabulary? Calloused soul? ...JUST WHY DO YOU DO IT? "The Lord will not hold him guiltless that taketh His name in vain." Man, too, will hold you guilty. The members of your family, — the fellows in your office, — the stranger on the street ... none of them like it! Your family deserves better of you. Your neighbors expect better of you. God requires better of you. Go to church and break the swearing habit. Learn to respect and honor and reverence God's name. Please don't swear!

You In The Church
The Church In You — form a combination for good. Every man, woman and child needs the influence of the church. So, come let us go into the house of the Lord. Let us support her program of service to humanity, be a faithful worker and attend services regularly.

PROTESTANT ACTION IN THE SOUTH

NEW YORK UPI — The National Council of Churches, in cooperation with the World Council of Churches, will tackle chronic problems of poverty and discrimination in the 15-county Mississippi Delta area from Memphis south to Vicksburg.

A task force of trained leaders will undertake projects of direct relief, job training, leadership education and "efforts to open up communication between Negroes and whites" in the area, according to an announcement in The Religious Newsweekly.

BAPTIST GAINS

NEW YORK UPI — There now are 91,500 Baptist churches in the United States with membership of more than 22.3 million, compared with 2,468 churches and 190,281 members in 1814, when the first national Baptist organization in America came into being, it was reported in conjunction with the Third Baptist Jubilee Year of 1964.

The year will be highlighted by the Third Baptist Jubilee Celebration, to be held at Atlantic City, N.J., May 22-24, which will be attended by Baptists from over the United States and Canada.

JEWS TO MEET

NEW YORK UPI — A call for a national conference of all Jewish religious leaders on the question of inter-marriage, which "jeopardizes the survival of American Jewry," has been issued by Rabbi Uri Miller of Baltimore, President of the Synagogue Council of America.

Rabbi Miller said the conference would take place in New York "sometime later in the year." The Synagogue Council of America is the national coordinating body of the three branches of the Jewish religious community, Conservative, Orthodox and Reform.

WOULD UNITE WORK

NEW YORK UPI — The United Church of Christ proposed that six Protestant denominations now engaged in long-term unity talks take action at the Consultation on Church Union at Princeton, N.J., April 13-16, to unite their work in specific fields such as home missions, overseas missions and mass communications. Denominations represented in the Consultation include the Methodist Church, Protestant Episcopal Church, United Presbyterian Church in the USA, United Church of Christ, International Convention of Christian Churches (Disciples) and the Evangelical United Brethren.

AID NEEDED

NEW YORK UPI — Church people in the United States, through their agency, Church World Service, last year sent overseas 433,191,234 (m) pounds of food, clothing, drugs and other needed commodities, valued at almost $34 million.

CWS rushed this aid to victims of the year's unprecedented number of typhoons, earthquakes, floods and hurricanes while carrying on regular programs of self-help, mass feeding and rehabilitation around the globe, according to The Religious Newsweekly.

CATHOLIC INCREASE

MARYKNOLL, N.Y. UPI — The Catholic population of the British Crown Colony of Hong Kong increased by 17,806 in 1963, according to a report from Maryknoll Father Eugene A. Thalman, of Wilmette, Ill. "There now are 190,461 Catholics among the colony's total population of 3,133,131 (m)," Father Thalman said. Currently serving the 34 parishes in the Hong Kong diocese are 321 priests, of whom 104 are Chinese.

TO HONOR PASTORS

SPRINGFIELD, Mo. UPI — An estimated 133 Assemblies of God ministers, each with more than 45 years of service to the church, will be honored during the 50th Anniversary Convention scheduled here April 20-23. About 10,000 delegates from throughout the United States and from other countries are expected to attend the four-day convention.

ARRIVED HOME

BOSTON UPI — Mrs. Malcolm E. Peabody arrived home and said she was ready to go to jail again in the South for the cause of civil rights. The sprightly 72-year-old mother of Gov. Endicott Peabody arrived here on a plane from St. Augustine, Fla.
